The night before Thanksgiving doesn't have a charming storybook about it, but it is famous for being the biggest drinking night of the year. Scientists haven't analyzed why, but it does seem like everyone has a reason to party, whether it's to brace against the looming family dinner or to forget that you're not able to go home this year. But drinking alone won't do, so we've rounded up some great ways to enjoy Thanksgiving Eve.

LETTUCE FIND AN ALT THANKSGIVING VEGGIE: CDC

1 Ahead of Turkey Day, the CDC has announced another outbreak of E. coli in romaine. As of Tuesday afternoon, there are 32 reported illnesses across 11 states. Thirteen have been hospitalized, and illnesses started on dates ranging from Oct. 8 to Oct. 31. According to the agency, one person developed kidney failure, but there have been no reported deaths at this time. "CDC is advising that U.S. consumers not eat any romaine lettuce, and retailers and restaurants not serve or sell any, until we learn more about the outbreak," reads a food safety alert. "This investigation is ongoing and the advice will be updated as more information is available." The CDC warns against eating any type of romaine lettuce while they proceed with an investigation. This goes for romaine of any kind: "whole heads of romaine, hearts of romaine, and bags and boxes of precut lettuce and salad mixes that contain romaine, including baby romaine, spring mix, and Caesar salad." If you have these products in your home, discard of them. If you feel symptoms such as severe stomach cramps, vomiting or diarrhea, contact your health care provider.

TRUMP WANTED CLINTON, COMEY PROSECUTED: NYT

2 President Donald Trump wanted to order the Justice Department to prosecute two political foes, his one-time presidential opponent Hillary Clinton and former FBI director James Comey, in the spring, but his White House counsel rebuffed him, the New York Times reported on Tuesday. Don McGahn, the White House counsel at the time, wrote a memo to the president outlining consequences for Trump if he did order these prosecutions. The outcomes ranged from the traditionally independent Justice Department refusing to comply, to congressional probes and voter outcry, the Times reported. The New York Times also reported Trump's lawyers privately asked the Justice Department to investigate Comey for mishandling sensitive government information and his role investigating Clinton's use of a private email account and server, but law enforcement officials declined. It was not clear if Trump read the memo or pursued the prosecutions further, the New York Times said. It was also not clear what specific charges Trump wanted the Justice Department to pursue against Comey and Clinton, the Times reported.

HUNG JURY DECLARED IN CASE OF QUEENS JOGGER

3 A hung jury was declared in the trial of 22-year-old Chanel Lewis, who was accused of murdering Queens jogger Karina Vetrano more than two years ago, according to multiple reports. NBC News reported that jurors were split, with no opportunity to move forward, after a day and a half of deliberations.

TWO ARRESTED IN DEADLY DENVER SHOOTING

4 Two men have been arrested in a shooting on a street corner in downtown Denver in which one person was killed and four others wounded, including one of the two suspects, the city's police chief said on Tuesday. Chief Paul Pazen also said that Monday's late-afternoon barrage of gunfire was a "targeted" attack, not random. He did not offer an explanation for what precipitated the violence. But police spokesman Doug Schepman said detectives were examining a range of possible motives, including whether the shooting may have been gang- or drug-related. Official details about the circumstances of the incident, which sent bystanders diving for cover at the start of the evening rush hour, remained sketchy. The Denver Post cited a witness as saying he saw a gunman open fire with a pistol on a group of people, then get into the driver's seat of his car, slam the door shut and speed away. The witness added that he heard roughly six gunshots and that one person in the crowd appeared to have returned gunfire at the assailant's car as it drove away.

Trump says he will stand by Saudi Arabia despite Khashoggi murder

Secretary of State Mike Pompeo backed the president's decision.

President Donald Trump vowed on Tuesday to remain a "steadfast partner" of Saudi Arabia despite saying that Saudi Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman may have known about the plan to murder dissident journalist Jamal Khashoggi last month.

Defying pressure from U.S. lawmakers to impose tougher sanctions on Saudi Arabia, Trump also said he would not cancel military contracts with the kingdom, saying such a "foolish" move would only benefit Russia and China.

Trump said U.S. intelligence agencies were still studying the evidence around Khashoggi's murder inside the Saudi consulate in Istanbul on Oct. 2 and who planned it.

"Our intelligence agencies continue to assess all information, but it could very well be that the Crown Prince had knowledge of this tragic event — maybe he did and maybe he didn't!" Trump said in a statement issued by the White House,

U.S. intelligence sources say the CIA's assessment is that Khashoggi's death was ordered by the crown prince, who is Saudi Arabia's de facto ruler and is widely known by his initials MbS.

Democratic and Republican lawmakers have urged Trump to drop his support for MbS, but the president has been reluctant.

He said on Tuesday that both Saudi Arabia's King Salman and MbS "vigorously deny any knowledge of the planning or execution of the murder," and that the truth may never be known.

He also stressed that Saudi Arabia, a major oil producer, is an important business partner and a "great ally" in the fight against Iranian power in the Middle East.

"The United States intends to remain a steadfast partner of Saudi Arabia to ensure the interests of our country, Israel and all other partners in the region," Trump said.

U.S. Secretary of State Mike Pompeo on Tuesday defended Trump's support for Saudi Arabia in defiance of international pressure despite the murder of dissident journalist Jamal Khashoggi in Turkey last month.

Pompeo, who spoke following a meeting with Turkish Foreign Minister Mevlut Cavusoglu in Washington, told a news conference that the United States was obligated to adopt policies that furthered U.S. national security interests.

"As the president said today, the United States will continue to have a relationship with the kingdom of Saudi Arabia," Pompeo said.

"This is a long, historic commitment and one that is absolutely vital to Americans' national security," Pompeo said.

Asked if he had seen the assessment of U.S. intelligence agencies about who ordered Khashoggi's killing, Pompeo said he could not comment on intelligence matters.

"When America has the information it needs it will of course do the right thing to protect American interests, and we have done so every time," he said. REUTERS

Democrats to probe Ivanka Trump's private email use for government work

A top House Democrat on Tuesday said a Congressional committee will investigate Ivanka Trump, President Donald Trump's daughter and a key White House adviser, following reports that she repeatedly used a personal email account for government business.

A White House review of Ivanka Trump's email found that she used her personal account up to 100 times last year to contact other Trump administration officials, the Washington Post reported on Monday, citing people familiar with the review.

Use of a personal account for government business potentially violates a law requiring preservation of all presidential records.

Trump repeatedly blasted his Democratic rival Hillary Clinton in the 2016 presidential election campaign over her use of personal email and a private server while she was U.S. secretary of state.

Representatives for U.S. Rep. Elijah Cummings, the top Democrat on the House Oversight Committee, said the panel will investigate White House communications when Democrats take over the U.S. House of Representatives in January.

"We plan to continue our investigation of the presidential records act and federal records act, and we want to know if Ivanka complied with the law," his office said in a statement.

Cummings, in a separate statement, said the White House has not handed over requested documents.

The White House did not respond to a request for comment, but Trump said his daughter's use of her personal email account was different from Clinton's.

"For a little period of time, Ivanka did some emails. They weren't classified like Hillary Clinton. They weren't deleted like Hillary Clinton. ... She wasn't doing anything to hide her emails," Trump told reporters.

"There was [sic] no servers in the basement like Hillary Clinton had," he added later.

Peter Mirijanian, a spokesman for Ivanka Trump's ethics lawyer, Abbe Lowell, told the Post the emails occurred before Ivanka Trump was aware of government record-keeping regulations. REUTERS

President Trump officially pardons national Thanksgiving turkey

Thanks to a pardon from President Donald Trump, both "Peas" and "Carrots" got away with their lives at the annual White House event.

The president, joined by first lady Melania Trump, issued this year's pardon to Peas, a 40-pound bird from South Dakota, and his alternate, Carrots. The winner and the alternate were decided in an online poll.

"That turkey is so lucky. I've never seen such a beautiful turkey," Trump said as he marked the occasion on Tuesday. Peas won in "a fair and open election," Trump said, adding, "unfortunately, Carrots refused to concede and demanded a recount!" resulting in a laugh from the crowd in the Rose Garden. ANNA HARSTEDT

Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade threatened by frigid winds

The coldest air so far this season will hit New York City in time for the Thanksgiving parade, accompanied by icy winds that may threaten to ground the giant balloons.

If you want to watch the annual Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade in person, be prepared for some record-breaking, bone-chilling temps accompanied by icy and powerful winds that could possibly ground the giant balloons.

"It will be a cold day in New York for the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade, with temperatures only in the lower to mid-20s during the parade, so spectators will need to bundle up," said AccuWeather Meteorologist Steve Travis. "However, cold winds gusting up to 30 mph at times will make it feel even more uncomfortable," he added.

According to NY Metro weather, the low-temperature culprits are a series of "blocking" ridges of high pressure over the North Atlantic, Canada and the Arctic.

The icy winds could reach up to 25 mph and gusts could blow up to 35 mph, putting the iconic balloons such as SpongeBob SquarePants and the Grinch at risk.

"Some of the balloons might not be able to fly or might be kept lower than you would typically see," Travis said.

If wind speeds are determined to be too high, the iconic giant balloons will not be included in the parade due to safety concerns.

"Based on the city's guidelines, no giant character balloon will be operated when there are sustained wind conditions exceeding 23 mph and wind gusts exceeding 34 mph on the parade route," Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade spokesman Orlando Veras told Metro.

NYPD and Macy's will make the final decision about the balloons Thursday morning based on the current weather data available from the parade route and other additional sources.

"The Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade takes place rain, shine or snow, Veras said. "We have a number of contingency plans in place in order to safely produce the event for our participants and spectators."

Anyone attending the event should make sure to be dressed in full winter attire with numerous layers to stay warm.

"Temperatures will be at dangerously low levels in the single digits, putting anyone with exposed skin at risk for frostbite," Travis said.

This year's parade will include many of the balloons and floats from years past as well as several new additions, including Little Cloud by FriendsWithYou and Sunny the Snowpal.

Musical acts will include John Legend, Leona Lewis, Martina McBride, Pentatonix and Sugarland.

Tekashi 6ix9ine, 22, faces 32 years on charges of racketeering and firearms

Although his legal team offered $1M in bail, Brooklyn-born Daniel Hernandez will remain in custody.

SARAH LUOMA
letters@metro.us

GETTY IMAGES

Brooklyn-born rapper and Instagram star Tekashi 6ix9ine, 22, thrives on controversy, ranging from his rainbow-colored hair and facial tattoos to bragging about gang violence and brushes with the law. He also is loved by fans and the music industry, having dominated Billboard's Top R&B/Hip-Hop and Top Rap Albums charts as well as made generous donations to charities and schools. The rapper, whose real name is Daniel Hernandez, is now facing 32 years in prison following a federal indictment on charges of armed robbery and murder conspiracy.

The rapper, who was arrested on Sunday night, was charged along with five other men including his former manager Kifano "Shottie" Jordan, Faheem "Crippy" Walter, Jensel "Ish" Butler, and Jamel "Mel Murda" Jones.

In Manhattan federal court, U.S. Magistrate Judge Henry B. Pittman denied bail following concerns that Hernandez may still be a danger to the community after a prosecutor argued that the rapper directed or participated in multiple acts of violence related to the Nine Trey gang and that FBI agents discovered an AR-15 firearm in his apartment.

According to Rolling Stone, four of Hernandez's associates including his former manager Kifano "Shottie" Jordan, Faheem "Crippy" Walter, Jensel "Ish" Butler, and Jamel "Mel Murda" Jones were also arrested by ATF and face many of the same charges at Hernandez, as well as drug charges involving heroin, fentanyl, MDMA, and marijuana, prosecutors said.

According to The New York Times, just last week the 22-year old fired his three gang-affiliated associates who were all part of his management team, canceled his U.S. tour, and was taken into protective custody prior to his arrest due to credible threats on his life. After authorities became aware of plans to visit a Connecticut casino, he was arrested to avoid further incident.

Monday's charges serve to compound the legal problems of the young rapper, who is currently on four years' probation after pleading guilty to the use of a child in a sexual performance in 2015. The rapper managed to stay out of legal trouble for two years following the case. However, in May 2018, he was arrested by authorities on charges of allegedly choking a 16-year-old in a Houston mall. In a separate incident, he was arrested for driving with a suspended license and assaulting an NYPD officer.

Ahead of holidays, 154 NYC seniors get affordable housing in Far Rockaway

Officials and residents celebrate the opening of Beach Channel Senior Apartments, a 100 percent affordable housing development.

KRISTIN TOUSSAINT
kristin.toussaint@metro.us

The holiday season is almost here, but for Benito Vega Gonzalez, an important gift came early: an affordable housing unit in Far Rockaway.

Gonzalez is one of 154 seniors to receive keys to units in the Beach Channel Senior Apartments, a new development in Far Rockaway that opened on Tuesday.

"When they gave me the key, I got emotional. Tears came out," he said. "I've been waiting so long, I never expected for the apartment to be such a nice place."

$350M

The city's $350 million program finances affordable housing especially for low-income seniors.

The new development, by the Arker Companies, is home to 100 percent affordable housing units for low-income seniors.

Before getting this key, Gonzalez, 69, was living in a basement unit with no furniture in Queens. Before that, he had been living in the Bronx with his girlfriend, but after she passed away, he had to give the affordable housing unit back to New York City housing, as it was in her name.

Now, Gonzalez has been granted a Section 8 voucher for this affordable housing unit near his family, meaning he has a place to welcome his seven children and many grandchildren.

"To get this [affordable housing unit] is one of the greatest experiences that I have ever had," he said. "This is my Christmas present."

City Council Member Donovan Richards, Housing Preservation and Development Commissioner Maria Torres-Springer, Borough President Melinda Katz and others were on-site with Gonzalez for the development ribbon cutting on Tuesday.

Forty-six of the 154 new Far Rockaway apartments are reserved for formerly homeless seniors, according to the company.

The Beach Channel development is one of the first projects completed under the city's $350 million program to finance affordable housing especially for low-income seniors. The Senior Affordable Rental Apartments Program allows this development to serve seniors who earn less than $36,300 per year.

"To get this [affordable housing unit] is one of the greatest experiences that I have ever had."
Benito Vega Gonzalez

Over the next 10 years, officials plan to build and preserve 10,000 affordable housing apartments for seniors.

"As people look to call Queens their home, it is more important than ever to create affordable housing for our senior citizens, especially for those seniors who need supportive services," Katz said in a statement. "The arrival of this affordable, storm-resilient development in Far Rockaway is something we can all be thankful for this Thanksgiving holiday."

A foreign exchange student from Taiwan made a comment about shooting up Bonner & Prendergast Catholic High in Drexel Hill. UPPER DARBY POLICE DEPARTMENT

Exchange student who threatened to shoot up school deported

After nearly eight months in jail, a Taiwanese exchange student who threatened to shoot up his Philly-area school will be deported.

SAM NEWHOUSE
sam.newhouse@metro.us

A Taiwanese foreign exchange student who was arrested after threatening to "shoot up" his Philly-area school agreed to be deported at his sentencing hearing in federal court.

Under the agreement, An-Tso Sun, 18, a.k.a. Edward Sun, who was arrested in March after a tipster alerted authorities to his verbal threat against Bonner & Prendergast Catholic High in Upper Darby, will be released from jail, deported to his native Taiwan and reunited with his celebrity parents, actor/director father Sun Peng and mother Di Ying, an opera singer, who reportedly had to sell two homes to pay for their son's legal defense.

"Hey, don't come to school on May 1st. … I'm going to come here armed and shoot up the school. Just kidding," Sun remarked on March 26, 2018, to a classmate after the school bell rang at the end of the day. But hearing the comment made just six weeks after the mass shooting in a Parkland, Florida, school claimed the lives of 17 students and staff, the classmate reported the comment to authorities — who quickly moved to investigate the home where Sun was residing.

Upper Darby police found some 1,600 bullets, ammunition intended for different types of weapons including AK-47s and AR-15s; a crossbow with a scope and seven arrows; a handmade Glock; garrote wire; and a full bulletproof outfit comprising ballistic vest, jacket and pants. Online, they found Sun had been searching for how to acquire an AK-47 and AR-15. The discovery terrified the Philadelphia region, with it appearing to be a near-miss of a mass shooting just outside the city.

The case was quickly transferred to federal jurisdiction. In August, Sun pleaded guilty to one count of being an alien in illegal possession of firearms. On Nov. 19, U.S. District Court Judge Nitza I. Quinones Alejandro sentenced Sun to four to 23 months in prison, and with credit for the five-and-a-half months of time served. The judge ordered him to forfeit all the ammunition in his possession, and granted Sun's immediate parole into the custody of ICE, who will deport Sun back to Taiwan, per his agreement with the court.

"Federal, state, and local law enforcement authorities in the Eastern District of Pennsylvania will continue to work together to prevent tragedy and combat terrorism and threats of violence," U.S. Attorney William McSwain said in a statement on the case. "But it is parents and guardians who serve as the first line of defense in these kinds of situations involving children's access to firearms."

Sun's sentencing to deportation — rather than a lengthy prison term — brings to a conclusion a drama closely watched in Sun's native Taiwan, where his celebrity parents have apologized repeatedly for their son's actions and pleaded for mercy, insisting that he was only joking when he threatened his school and collected the bullets and weapons due to his desire to eventually find a career in law enforcement and his military hobbyist's interest in learning about the tools of the trade.

The stockpile of bullets included 20 rounds of 9mm Blazer Brass ammunition; two AK-style 30-round magazines with ammunition; two AR-15-style 30-round magazines with ammunition; and numerous additional boxes of ammunition — totaling more than 1,600 rounds.

"Armed with over a 1,000 rounds of ammunition, he threatened a mass shooting — an evil plot to cause mass harm and carnage that we believe he would have carried out, if not stopped," Delaware County District Attorney Katayoun M. Copeland said in a statement. "As the result of the swift response of his classmates, school officials and the Upper Darby Police Department, no one was harmed. Mr. Sun is now facing the severe consequences of his actions and deportation."

As of Nov. 20, Sun was still awaiting formal extradition back to Taiwan.

Bronx Zoo euthanizes Maxine the elephant

At age 48, Maxine, who had been at the zoo for 45 years, suffered from a progressive illness, zoo staff said.

KRISTIN TOUSSAINT
kristin.toussaint@metro.us

The Bronx Zoo announced on Tuesday that it had euthanized an elephant that was no longer able to eat due to a progressive illness.

Maxine, a 48-year-old Asian elephant, had been at the zoo for 45 years after coming there in 1973.

Some employees knew and worked alongside Maxine for more than 40 years, said Jim Breheny, director of the Bronx Zoo and executive vice president of Wildlife Conservation Society, in a statement.

"We have great memories of Maxine; she was a wonderful animal with a great personality. She was loved by those who cared for her each day as well as the millions of visitors she inspired in over four decades at the Bronx Zoo," he said. "This was a really difficult day for all of us at the zoo. Caring for animals is a great privilege and a great responsibility; we made a commitment to provide the best care for Maxine 45 years ago and today we met our final obligation to her."

Maxine the elephant was being treated for "elevated liver and kidney enzymes and had experienced neurologic deterioration and generalized muscle weakness," according to the Wildlife Conservation Society, which is based at the Bronx Zoo and manages that zoo as well as the Central Park Zoo, Prospect Park Zoo, Queens Zoo and New York Aquarium.

The zoo decided to euthanize Maxine on Tuesday, per the society, because she was no longer able to eat.

Now, the Bronx Zoo has two remaining elephants: Happy, 47, and Patty, 48.

Patty had lived with Maxine since they both first arrived at the zoo, according to Breheny.

"We spent today with Patty and Happy, monitoring their behavior and reaction to Maxine's death," he said. "They seem to be coping well with the situation. We will continue to watch them closely.

Happy had previously lived with an elephant named Grumpy, who was fatally injured in 2002.

In 2006, the Bronx Zoo announced that it would end its elephant program when its remaining elephants died, choosing to help endangered elephants in the wild rather than replenish the elephants in captivity.

In the wake of Maxine's death, the Bronx Zoo will assess its elephant program.

"The plan we develop for our elephants moving forward will be based on our expertise in elephant behavior and husbandry, veterinary evaluation — and, most of all, on an intimate, in-depth understanding of our individual animals and their needs," Breheny said.

In October, animal welfare group the Nonhuman Rights Project filed a legal petition in Orleans County saying that Happy had similar rights to a human being and should be relocated from the Bronx Zoo to a private sanctuary with more space. The Bronx Zoo said that Happy was content and might actually suffer from a transfer.

Doctors Urge Knee Pain Sufferers

"Don't Get ANY Surgery Until You SeeThis…"

After Years Of Intense Study, NYC Medical Clinic Finally Reveals It's Best "Treatment Formula" For Helping Knee Arthritis Sufferers... Especially When So Many Other Treatments Have Failed

NEW YORK CITY - If you are even remotely interested in discovering how the latest scientific discoveries can possibly help your knee pain... then this is going is be the most exciting information you ever read.

Here is why: Knee pain can not only be brutal... it's complex. In other words, it's not a simple, easy fix.

But I'm sure you already know that. Or you wouldn't be reading this.

That's the bad news.

Now for some good news...

Over the years, NYC Pain MD has treated countless knee pain sufferers. And in that time have been able to constantly improve.

And we have come up with a treatment formula that we have found works best and helps the most patients.

This formula has reduced or even eliminated the pain in many. Some were scheduled for knee replacement surgery and felt good enough to cancel their surgery.

It's amazing when patients who were once in excruciating pain... start feeling better. And start walking again. And playing golf. Or tennis. And finally getting their lives back.

Especially when they had gone to other doctors and tried so many other things.

So many had given up hope.

Sound familiar? If it does... check this out...

The Treatment Formula

While I can't give you the entire treatment formula here (there is not enough space and WAY too complicated) I can give you the basics. And more important... I can tell you what it might be able to do for YOU.

The first and most important part of the formula is: PATIENT SELECTION.

This means, NYC Pain MD has a detailed screening process to tell who is most likely to be helped by their treatments... and who is not.

If you qualify, you have the opportunity to move forward and experience the worldclass treatments that NYC Pain MD offers.

If you do not, NYC Pain MD will tell you what they think your best options are and help you find the right doctor for you.

NYC Pain MD "Treatment Formula" A protocol of advanced medical treatments that has already helped thousands.

If you qualify, NYC Pain MD offers some of the most advanced medical treatments available today all using the most advanced imaging technology including:

- Viscosupplementation (gel injections)
- Platelet Rich Plasma (PRP)
- Stem Cell Therapy (Lipogems)
- Genicular Knee Block
- And more.

Once again, there is not enough space to go into detail about all these procedures... but here are some things you MUST KNOW....

Viscosupplementation is where a doctor introduces a gel-like medicine directly into the joint space. This helps to lubricate the joints often relieving some, most or even all of your pain. Results can last for 6 months to several years.

Many have had these treatments without good results. However, NYC Pain MD feels this is because doctors often do these "gel injections" without advanced imaging to guide them. Research shows they will often miss the joint. If the joint is missed... it is impossible for the treatment to work.

NYC Pain MD has spared no expense and used advanced imaging to guide the injections assuring the medicine gets into the joint. We frequently get results when this treatment was a failure done elsewhere.

The second thing you must know is... our treatment plans are custom made for every patent. And we have all these treatments offered in the same place. Many times you will get the best results from multiple treatments. At NYC Pain MD your doctors will all be there and will all know each other and you and your case. They work together and give you the best treatments and care without you having to go anywhere else.

The ability to select the right patients and then have the potential to give them any or all of these treatments... with all the necessary medical technology... under one roof... has allowed NYC Pain MD to get better results than they thought possible.

Here's What You Should Do Next

If you suffer with knee pain... and any of this made sense to you... NYC Pain MD would like to offer you a No-cost screening. That screening is the first step in our "Treatment Formula."

You will get to see a doctor and ask any questions you have. Your doctor will take the first steps to see if you qualify for treatments and give you recommendations.

The best thing is... you will finally get direction. You will know what's going on and what is your best course of action… step-by-step. The treatments will be explained in detail and you will breathe a big sigh of relief finally knowing what's going on and what can or cannot be done.

There is so much we want to say to help you... but I'm out of space. Give us a call at 877-296-6310 and take the first step. That step is free without obligation.

Bedros Keuilian PROVIDED

Making success a holiday ritual

Whether you're a celebrity trainer like Jason Walsh or in need of one, the road to success requires a ritual approach, says author and motivational speaker Bedros Keuilian.

JEFF TOMKO
jeff.tomko@metro.us

We all think it — then eventually overthink it: If only we could re-create the step-by-step process that led to today's killer 6 a.m. workout every day, we'd be invincible in everything we do.

But then comes the stressful day at the office, after-work drinks, picking up the kids from school, answering emails, meal prepping, errands, preparing for the holidays — in other words, life swoops in and spoils even the most perfect formula. And just like that, you're off your game, sleeping in, hitting the snooze, and back to the drawing board instead of where you planned to be — at the gym.

Instead of overthinking your way into developing inconsistent habits, it's time to "man up" and stick to a ritual that has you geared to the goals you aim to achieve and not just getting you through the week, says Bedros Keuilian, entrepreneur, motivational speaker and author of the appropriately titled "Man Up: How to Cut the Bulls and Kick A in Business (and in Life)."

By developing a ritual that works for attaining whatever goal you set — sleep schedule, meditation time, green tea/coffee, workout times, even social media access — and eliminating what he calls the trivial routines that are pulling you away from the goals, your time and mind are better focused toward success in any endeavor.

"It's like being a fighter pilot," says Keuilian, "The pilot goes into the fighter jet, closes the canopy, then goes through his ritual: turning on the GPS, the afterburners — he's mentally preparing for battle. And these days, with all the distractions we have, if we don't go through a starting ritual to lock ourselves down and get that singularity of focus, it's over."

One of Keuilian's biggest tips to keeping to a ritual is applying what he calls the "5 percent" rule: Focus on what matters most toward achieving your goal — making money, gains in the gym — and finding ways to eliminate "chores" that clog up your time — sending out dry cleaning, even food prep ("there are plenty of services that can do that for you," he says) even if to you they seem essential. "Once the ball started rolling, I figured out the formula of buying back my time and outsourcing all the trivial matters to other people when possible."

It's not just motivational speakers who preach the importance of rituals. Jason Walsh, owner of VersaClimber cathedral Rise Nation and one of Los Angeles' most sought-after trainers — whose clientele includes Matt Damon, Bradley Cooper, Minka Kelly and Alison Brie — is a huge proponent of maintaining a ritualistic lifestyle. For Walsh, before he gets his clients movin', he gets his day started with a morning meditation session, as he showed on a recent YouTube segment of "Rituals."

"Having a ritual is critical for health, not only on your physical performance, but also on your mental and spiritual balance as well," Walsh tells Metro. "Your body responds best when an optimal routine is planned and followed. Even the act of meditation or getting up at the same time each day primes you to be ready for action. And that just sets you up for success."

Waking up at the crack of dawn isn't required for success, but keeping that consistent ritual is necessary. So it's time to stop the thinking and get to working toward victory.

"I'm not saying make a rash decision [about your work]," Keuilian says, "but do what Colin Powell would say: If you have as little as 40 percent of the information you need, you're ready to make a decision. But anyone who is looking to gather 100 percent of the information will become irrelevant in anything they do."

PEOPLE WHO GRUMBLE TOO MUCH!
This is by far one of THE biggest problems with your average American citizen. Doesn't even matter what race or color. We have soooo much to be grateful for yet we always see the dark side. The glass is always half-empty, and God forbid we have to be patient and WAIT for something. It's actually very childish for adults to sit around huffing and puffing over every uncomfortable, inconvenient situation. Stop grumbling and start humbling is what I say. But I'm certain that someone out there is grumbling while reading this commentary, too.

SALT THE SUBWAY STEPS, PLEASE!
It snowed on Thursday, Nov. 15, and the steps of the subway were not salted. I and many other people were afraid we would slip and fall walking down the steps! How much does it cost to buy salt? Yet the subway fare is raised constantly! Why is that? We pay more money every year for this lousy service.

Aries Take care of money matters. Make an adjustment to investments, contracts and personal documents that are time-sensitive. Do your own negotiating, banking and investigative work.

Taurus Take care of concerns that affect older friends or relatives. Your assistance will be rewarded and will make you feel good. An unexpected change will turn out to be beneficial.

Gemini Concentrate on the changes you want to make. Don't leave anything up to someone else if you want it done to your specifications. Protect personal secrets and private information.

Cancer Get your game on. You can wheel and deal with the best of them if you use your experience and intuition to outmaneuver others.

Leo Don't let an emotional incident lead you to make a poor choice. Step back and do something that will take your mind off things you cannot change.

Virgo A business meeting, day trip or educational pursuit will get you back on track and heading in a positive direction. Don't let what's going on in your personal life disrupt your plans.

Libra Don't leave anything to chance. Make last-minute changes that will help counter interference from someone critical. Don't trust a peer or friend to take care of your responsibilities.

Scorpio Take the plunge and use your imagination when it comes to matters concerning friends or relatives. If someone needs help, offer suggestions, not cash or valuable time.

Sagittarius Trust will be an issue when dealing with a friend or relative. Don't expect someone to keep a secret if you share sensitive information. Protect what's important to you.

Capricorn Compassion and understanding will help you clear up a situation you face with a friend or relative. Offer solutions, but don't take charge or take on someone else's problems.

Aquarius Emotional situations will escalate quickly. Concentrate on personal improvements that will ease stress and bring results that will leave you feeling good about the way you look and what you've accomplished.

Pisces Ask direct questions and verify the information you receive. Someone will try to outsmart or manipulate you if you aren't careful. Problems with a friend or relative should be handled practically. EUGENIA LAST

The Powerful (and little known) Back Pain Treatment Used By Smart New Yorkers Who Don't Want Back Surgery or Opioid Drugs

NEW YORK CITY - A major back pain relief opportunity is at hand. But if you are interested, you must act quickly.

Here is why: Back pain ruins lives... and puzzles doctors.

You go through so many exams and tests... and treatments... and only end up suffering and frustrated.

And everyone is quick to say they have the "new breakthrough solution."

Am I right?

Well, the fact of the matter is... treating back pain is difficult. But advances in modern medical science and technology have created a treatment that has gotten great results with countless back pain sufferers who had tried everything else. Many had given up hope.

This treatment is called: "Radiofrequncy Neurotomy." RF for s short. And here's how is works...

RF is a procedure that is based on the theory that blocking the nerve supply to the painful area may alleviate pain and restore function.

There are many nerves around your back or neck and one of their jobs is to sense PAIN.

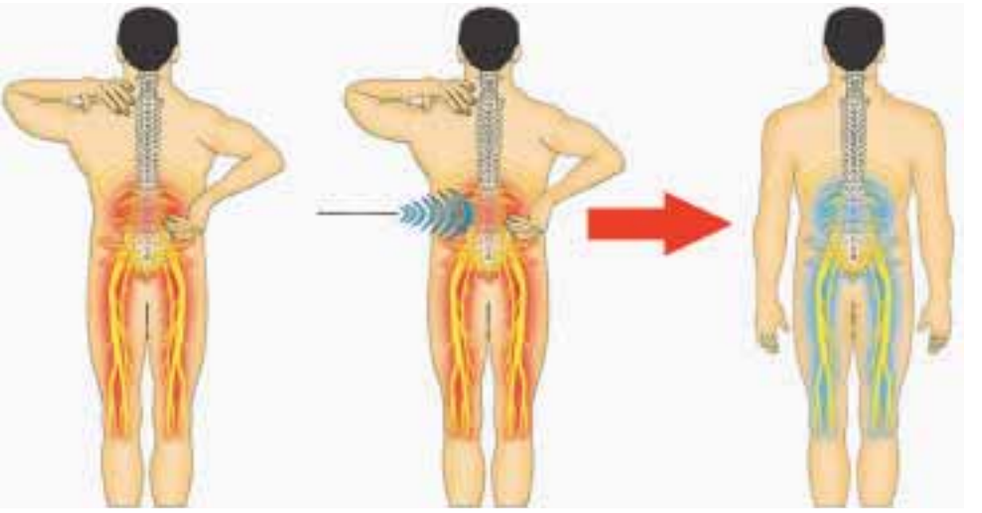
Radiofreqeuncy waves are delivered to these nerves under advanced precision medical imaging to target the damaged areas... done right in their own clinic without intimidating, expensive hospitals or surgical centers ... to "block" the painful nerve flow.

Two steps in the formula are performed. First, a test or diagnostic "Block" procedure is done to determine if the procedure is going to decrease pain and improve function. If this first "test" procedure is successful, RF Neurotomy or "Radiofrequency" will be performed for longer term relief.

NOT just the Treatment alone that's the key ingredient.

You see, the real secret is the formula. And that again starts with a proper screening evaluation to determine if you are a good candidate and may achieve the results you are looking forward to. This is always Step number one.

And the best part about this screening is… It's FREE



FREE screening available for powerful back pain treatment

This screening will give you so much relief just knowing what is going on… and what your best options are.

That's right. NYC Pain MD offers this first step screening at no cost to patients The only problem is… they often get over 100 inquiries a day as they also treat almost every painful area and joint. Sometimes its hard to get through. If you don't get through to someone when you call… keep calling… or leave a message... it will be well worth it.

But that's just the first step

After your free screening, if you qualify, the doctors will discuss the best treatment plan for you in a way that you will understand completely. Not all complex "doctor talk"...

This may be one… or a combination of the advanced medical treatments offered at NYC Pain MD.

Everything will be explained and all your questions will be answered. And even better:

You will be given all this At NO COST. NYC Pain MD doc's are not like used car salesman. They will not be giving you a sales pitch. They are doctors and will give you the best possible options to help your pain and offer to help you the best way they can. In fact, with up to 100 inquiries a day from patient's looking for relief, it's often hard to even get a treatment spot.

You should also know this: While NYC Pain MD cannot help everyone… so many have gotten the pain relief they were looking for.

One of the reasons they offer those first step free screenings, is because it has opened the door to so many people to get help that they never would have otherwise.

At the very least, you will finally have some direction and a plan. And... whether you have the best, worst or no insurance at all, NYC Pain MD programs can be made affordable to everyone

They do not want insurance issues… or not being rich or famous… to keep you away if you are suffering in pain.

How To Schedule Your Risk-Free No-Obligation Screening Evaluation

There is a whole lot more I could say about their treatments etc… but this space is limited and that's best left for you and the doctors to discuss in person.

So… if you are even remotely interested … take the a first step and give them a call at 877-245-9252 and ask for your free screening.

One more thing... We often get over 100 calls in a single day. For that reason, if when you call you do not get a live scheduling coordinator, make sure to leave your name, number and time of your call on our voicemail. They will get back to you as soon as possible. Again, the number to call is 877-245-9252. More info at: painmdny.com/back-pain

WinterFest is the new holiday destination

Brooklyn is finally getting its own winter village this year — and it's going to be the envy of the city. WinterFest brings an entire Christmas town to the grounds of the Brooklyn Museum, with a 40,000-square-foot wonderland brimming with holiday goodies and fun starting on the Friday after Thanksgiving.

Opening Nov. 23 for six weeks through Dec. 31, WinterFest is the charming holiday village you'd find in the suburbs dropped right into the heart of Brooklyn. There's really no other holiday destination in the city like it because instead of just being a place to buy gifts, it's packed full of things to do for all ages.

WinterFest opens Nov. 23. PROVIDED

Attractions include the Enchanted Tree Maze that explores 20 different ways to celebrate the holiday season from around the world, and an inflatable slide called Snowzilla.

There's live music nightly featuring local performers like Dancewave and the Brooklyn Music School as well as touring bands, carolers and bell ringers. Thursdays are for karaoke, so everyone can have a chance to get onstage, while Wednesdays are movie nights.

You can visit with Santa and Mrs. Claus for a photo ($15) — bring your pets on Thursdays! — or opt for a less traditional but more Instagram-approved pic inside a giant snowglobe.

For your holiday shopping needs, WinterFest's Angels Market promises to be as charming as the glass booths of Bryant Park's Winter Village. Small wooden cabins house about 50 local shops and artisans selling decorations, jewelry, clothing, crafts and more.

Foodies will enjoy the giant Chocolate Dome at the heart of the village, "an interactive experience made entirely of sweet treats," plus ticketed tastings at the Vinopolis Wine Tasting Experience and a beer garden.

Alongside all the Christmas fun will be events that recognize all the seasonal holidays like menorah lighting, specialty food, musical performances and activities for kids.

WinterFest is located at 200 Eastern Pkwy. Entry to the grounds is free, though most attractions and events charge admission. Tickets are on sale now at winterfestbrooklynmuseum.com. EVA KIS

Pretzel Stuffing

The "Girl Meets Farm" star has a special stuffing recipe in store for Thanksgiving. "It's basically a spin on the classic Thanksgiving stuffing that has the added bonus of pretzel flavor and just the right hit of mustard!"

Ingredients:

- 10 heaping cups cubed pretzel rolls
- 1 16-ounce package bacon, cut into 1/2-inch pieces
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 4 celery ribs, chopped
- Kosher salt and freshly ground black pepper
- 1 1/2 cups chicken broth
- 1/2 cup beer
- 1/4 cup Dijon mustard
- 2 tablespoons honey
- 2 large eggs
- Nonstick cooking spray or butter, for greasing the casserole dish
- 1/2 cup chopped fresh parsley

Directions:

Preheat the oven to 200 degrees F. Spread out the pretzel cubes on baking sheets and bake, flipping cubes halfway through, until the bread dries out, about 1 hour. Set aside to cool and increase the oven temperature to 375 degrees. Fry the bacon until crisp in a large saute pan. Remove to a paper towel-lined plate to cool. Drain off 1/4 cup bacon grease from pan; set aside. Add the onion and celery to the pan with the remaining bacon grease and cook over medium heat until soft, about 5 minutes; season with salt and pepper. Set aside. Whisk together the chicken broth, beer, mustard, honey and eggs in a medium bowl. Grease a 9-by-13-inch casserole dish, then gently combine the bread cubes, bacon, parsley and onion/celery mixture in the dish. Pour the broth mixture over the top and toss gently to coat. Pour the reserved bacon grease over the top; bake until set and golden, about 40 minutes. Yields 6 to 8 servings.

Feet Hurt? Bunions? Hammertoes? Heel Pain?

Platelet Rich Plasma Therapy (PRP)
A new approach for treating Tendon Injuries for the Achilles, Tendonitis and Plantar Fasciitis (Heel and Arch Pain)

Take The Foot Health Checkup

- My toenails are streaked, discolored and thickened.
- The sides of my toenails dig into the skin and hurt.
- I have a large bump behind my big toe (or little toe) which is always red.
- I get an extremely painful "cramp" in the area of my third and fourth toes when wearing shoes.
- My toes aren't straight- they are all cocked-up, bent and hurt.
- I have painful calluses on the ball of my foot which keep building up.
- I have corns on my toes which get thick no matter what shoe size I wear.
- The bottoms of my feet hurts all day, but it's worse when I step out of bed in the morning.
- I have cramps in my legs which always happen when I walk the same distance.
- My ankles are swollen most of the time.
- My feet are always dry and scaly – sometimes they itch.
- My feet just hurt all over when I stand or walk a lot.
- I have numbness, burning, infection, persistent pain, skin rash, or open sores.

Fried Brussels Sprouts with Apple Gastrique and Candied Pumpkin Seeds

The judge on Food Network's "Ultimate Thanksgiving Challenge" puts quite the spin on brussels sprouts with this epic side dish. "I love this dish because who doesn't love fried brussels sprouts? The crunchiness and the saltiness from the sprout combined with the sweet tanginess of the apple cider gastrique really bring it home for me! The nutty finish of the pumpkin seeds add another layer of flavor that's just really nice."

Ingredients:
- 1 lb. brussels sprouts
- 3 cups vegetable oil
- 1 recipe apple gastrique
- 1 recipe candied pumpkin seeds

Directions:
Prepare the brussels sprouts: trim the stem end of the brussels sprouts and cut a cross about 1/8th inch deep in the top of the sprouts.

Cook the brussels sprouts: Heat the vegetable oil in a sauce pot until a drop of water sizzles in the oil. Fry the brussels in 2 batches until very crispy. Drain brussels on a paper towel and sprinkle with salt. Immediately put brussels in a mixing bowl with the apple gastrique and toss until the brussels are well coated with the sauce. Divide the brussels onto 4 plates and sprinkle pumpkin seeds on top.

Apple Gastrique

Ingredients:
- ¼ cup finely chopped shallots
- ½ cup apple cider vinegar
- ¼ cup honey
- ¼ cup apple cider

Directions:
Combine shallots, vinegar and honey in a sauce pot. Cook over medium heat until reduced by ½. Add apple cider and cook until the mixture is thick and syrupy.

Candied Pumpkin Seeds

Ingredients:
- 1 cup raw, shelled pumpkin seeds
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 1 cup water
- ½ tsp sea salt

Directions:
Preheat oven to 350°F. Spread pumpkin seeds out on baking sheet and put in preheated oven. Bake pumpkin seeds until nicely toasted (about 10 minutes). Combine sugar and water in a medium-sized sauce pot and mix well. Place pot on stove over medium heat and cook, stirring constantly until sugar is dissolved. Add pumpkin seeds to the syrup and simmer on low heat for 30 minutes. Drain pumpkin seeds out of syrup and spread out onto heavily greased baking pan. Put seeds back in the oven for about 15 minutes or until they are very crunchy.

Sausage Cornbread Stuffing

Another interesting take on stuffing. The "Worst Cooks in America" host takes things up a notch by adding sausage to the fan-favorite dish. "This sausage and cornbread stuffing is a huge crowd-pleaser! It's sweet, savory and finishes up with a great herbiness — a little something for everyone. And it can be made ahead!"

Ingredients:
- Extra-virgin olive oil
- 1 large onion, small dice
- 3 ribs celery, small dice
- Kosher salt
- 1 pound spicy sausage, casing removed, broken into bite-size chunks
- 3 cloves garlic, smashed and finely diced
- 3/4 cup coarsely chopped walnuts
- 10 sage leaves, finely chopped
- 3 sprigs rosemary, leaves finely chopped
- 10 cups stale cornbread, cut into 1-inch cubes
- 2 cups dried cranberries
- 3 to 4 cups chicken stock

Directions:
Preheat the oven to 350 degrees F.

Coat a large saute pan with olive oil, add the onions and celery and saute over to medium heat. Season with salt and cook until the vegetables start to become soft and are very aromatic. Add the sausage and cook until the sausage begins to brown. Stir in the garlic and saute for another 1 to 2 minutes. Add the walnuts, sage and rosemary and cook for another minute, then remove from heat.

In a large bowl mix together the cornbread, cranberries, and the sausage mixture. Add chicken stock and knead with your hands until the bread is very moist, actually wet. Taste to check for seasoning and season with salt, if needed, and transfer to an ovenproof dish. Bake the stuffing until it is hot all the way through and is crusty on top, about 30 to 35 minutes. MMMMM...stuffing!

Wreck-It Ralph returns to take on cyberbullying in 'Ralph Breaks the Internet'

Co-creators Rich Moore and Phil Johnston on the existential questions in their new Disney film.

PAT KING
patrick.king@metro.us

When Disney's "Wreck-It Ralph" won over all of our hearts upon its release in 2012, it did so in a way that went a little deeper than the usual animated crowd-pleaser. The film followed Wreck-It Ralph (voiced by John C. Reilly), the Donkey Kong-like villain in the arcade game "Fix-It Felix Jr.," in his search to find meaning outside of his "game" — and acceptance for who he is when the game shuts down.

The movie's sequel, "Ralph Breaks the Internet," picks up right where the last film left off. (Ralph had finally found acceptance with his new best friend Vanellope, voiced by Sarah Silverman). While Ralph had struggled with his role in the first film, the sequel focuses on Vanellope, who loves her job as a race car driver inside of "Sugar Rush" until one day, the steering wheel of the game breaks, forcing the arcade owner to unplug the game. Without her job, Vanellope loses her sense of purpose. Ralph then takes her into the World Wide Web to see if they can win a new steering wheel through eBay to get her back into the game. Like the first film, this existential question of whether or not your work defines you is at the center of "Ralph Breaks the Internet," and is a question that co-creators Rich Moore and Phil Johnston were not afraid to keep exploring.

"We thought of Vanellope's character arc as not being completed at the end of the first movie. That was the halfway point for her," says Moore. "Ralph is a little more finished at the end of the first movie."

Ralph's journey in the first film helped him come to terms with accepting that your life is defined by the people and things you care about and not about what you do for your day job. But in this film, Vanellope asks, what if your job happens to be the thing you love in life?

"Vanellope does have this existential dilemma when her game is unplugged," says Johnston. "To Vanellope, being a racer is a huge part of who she is. Her job to her is more than a job, it's something she loves. She's one of the fortunate people who does what she loves. Ralph could live without his job. For him, having a friend is enough. For Vanellope, her job is as much a part of her passion and who she is in her DNA and her code as anything. The work-life balance is a little out of whack at the beginning, when she loses her job, so the movie is this quest to fix her game and get it back."

The other issue the film tackles is cyberbullying.

When Ralph enters the internet, he puts himself in a situation that opens himself up to the trolling of internet commenters. In Moore's mind, they wanted to try and approach this issue in a way that would not spoon-feed the audience a solution, but rather start a conversation. This is something the duo did with the issue of racism in their animated feature "Zootopia."

"That is not our job, I feel," says Moore. "What we like to do is to put our characters into situations where they experience it and then commit it, and how, then, at the end, do they rise above it."

"Ralph Breaks the Internet" hits theaters on Nov. 21.

How superhero movies influenced the new 'Robin Hood'

Taron Egerton and director Otto Bathurst talk making another movie on the English outlaw.

GREGORY WAKEMAN
Gregory.Wakeman@metro.us

Taron Egerton is the latest to don the mantle of the English outlaw.
ALL PHOTOS LARRY HORRICKS

"Robin Hood" star Taron Egerton and director Otto Bathurst are well aware that many movies have been made on the heroic English outlaw.

In fact, when they were approached about yet another incarnation of "Robin Hood," they both questioned the need for the film. However, it didn't take long for the pair to see the potential to fit the iconic marksman into a cinematic landscape that's dominated by superheroes.

"We wanted to make it in the mold of a superhero film," Egerton tells Metro. "Those are the type of films that do best. Those are the films that make money. Those are the films that audiences want to see.

"So if you can apply some of those tropes and storytelling techniques to a 'Robin Hood' movie, then you could be on to a winner," he adds. "For a modern audience that are used to 'The Avengers,' you have to find a way to ramp it up and make it feel as dangerous as possible. As high-energy as possible."

According to Egerton, the style of archery used in the film is meant "to feel superhuman."

"That's Robin Hood's superpower," says Egerton. "So Otto decided to dispense with any sense of what was historically accurate and did what was the most exciting."

"This is not meant to be a quaint retelling of the 'Robin Hood' story," adds Bathurst, who makes his feature film directorial debut with "Robin Hood."

"Anybody expecting that is going to be sorely disappointed. Nor is it meant to be a history lesson. The film is, obviously, historically completely bananas and the costumes are outlandish," says Bathurst. "This is not what people looked and dressed like in medieval times. Nottingham didn't look like that, and mining hadn't been invented at the time of the Crusades."

"So the film is an anarchic mash-up, for very conscious reasons. I wasn't interested in making a faithful 'Robin Hood' story," he adds. "There are going to be people that really react to what we have done. There will be people that hate the costumes and think our history is insane. That's cool. But then they've missed the point.

"If we'd stuck to the period, it would have been harder to make it exciting," insists Egerton. "It is a commercial studio movie so you want to make sure it appeals to audiences that are used to superhero films and fast-paced movies."

Taron Egerton and Jamie Foxx.

But what about the criticism that there have already been too many "Robin Hood" movies?

"Stories do get retold," is Egerton's response. "We have always been like that. Whether it is onstage or in movies. It is probably more to do with cynicism being more prevalent. People like to be outraged.

"This is meant to be a reflection for a modern audience," adds Bathurst. "If I had done a traditional 'Robin Hood,' it may have been brilliant and lovely, but it wouldn't feel relevant to your life."

"Robin Hood" is now in theaters.

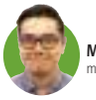
Wahlberg snapped a selfie with Selfie Kid at last week's red carpet event for "Instant Family." ALL PHOTOS ARAM BOGHOSIAN

Mark Wahlberg acts his age

"I'm embracing getting older."



MATT JUUL
matthew.juul@metro.us

After teaming up for box-office hits "Daddy's Home" and "Daddy's Home 2," Mark Wahlberg and director Sean Anders hope to make it a three-peat of cinema successes with their latest comedy, "Instant Family."

The duo has clearly become fond of each other after working on three flicks together, which made us wonder whether they had any future collaborations in store. Perhaps a "Daddy's Home 3"?

During Anders' recent trip to Boston for the "Instant Family" press tour, the director told Metro that, although there aren't any firm plans in place, he does have a fun idea for a "Daddy's Home 3" should it happen down the road.

"As far as 'Daddy's Home 3' goes, I don't know if that's in the cards or not," Anders said. "We were sort of joking about that. Maybe the way to do that is 20 years in the future, when Mark and Will [Ferrell] are old men, to do a kind of 'Grumpy Old Men' reunion when one of the kids is getting married or something."

While Wahlberg was in Boston last week for a red-carpet screening of "Instant Family," he seemed fond of Anders' idea for a "Daddy's Home 3," although he also didn't have an update on a possible sequel. The idea of playing a grandpa on-screen at some point did intrigue him, though.

"I haven't thought about that, but would love to be able to at some point play a grandfather," Wahlberg said."I'm embracing getting older. I don't mind playing dad.

"I just got an offer to play a 24-year-old. I was like, "That's a bit of a stretch,'" he added. "I appreciate it. It was flattering. But I like to embrace my old age. I age gracefully."

When it comes to working with Anders, Wahlberg praised the director for his willingness to collaborate and for running a "smooth" ship on his sets.

"He's always open to suggestions and a little bit of help throughout the development process, so I absolutely love the guy," Wahlberg said. "It's nice to see a guy who knows what he wants and how to get it.

"I know by the time we're at the starting line and we're actually shooting the movie in principal photography, I'm just kind of doing my job as an actor," he added. "I don't have to worry about there being any fires to put out. It's pretty smooth because Sean's got it all under control."

Seeing as how Wahlberg jumped at the chance to star in "Instant Family" without even seeing a script, it's safe to say that the actor would be very willing to work with Anders again. And the feeling is mutual.

"I would love to work with him again," Anders said.

"Instant Family" is now in theaters.

Is Bryce Harper next at 1B for Yanks?

The Yankees are weighing the possibility of signing the game's biggest free agent, per reports.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

After signing James Paxton, could the Yankees continue to make waves by pursuing free-agent outfielder Bryce Harper? GETTY IMAGES

The New York Yankees are likely not even close to being done after the acquisition of pitcher James Paxton from the Seattle Mariners. But are we talking about free-agent megastar Bryce Harper making his way to the Bronx?

According to MLB Network's Jon Morosi, the Yankees discussed the possibility of signing Harper and moving him from the outfield to first base. Though a source was quick to add that at the moment, it seems "unrealistic."

The idea of Harper moving positions was sparked by his agent, Scott Boras, who continued to build up his client by saying he could succeed at the position.

It's not that the 26-year-old needs any more hype. The 2015 NL MVP and six-time All-Star is on the verge of becoming Major League Baseball's second $300 million man alongside Yankees slugger Giancarlo Stanton.

Harper has already turned down a 10-year, $300 million deal from the Washington Nationals, his original club.

His power bat would only add to the Yankees' embarrassment of riches as he would join a lineup that set an MLB record for most home runs hit by a team in a single season.

Over his first seven years in the league, Harper has a 162-game average of 32 home runs and 91 RBI.

The idea of putting him at first base would quickly dismiss any thought of Luke Voit becoming the franchise's full-time first baseman. After being acquired from the St. Louis Cardinals at the trade deadline, Voit became an overnight sensation with 14 home runs and 33 RBI in just 39 games down the stretch.

Either way, this will likely be the end of the line for Greg Bird, who has experienced nothing but struggles and injuries in his three seasons with the Yankees.

Why Paxton trade might not be great for Yankees

New York picked up pitching help, but it came at a cost. What can they expect from James Paxton?

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

The New York Yankees made their first big move of the offseason, trading for Seattle Mariners left-handed pitcher James Paxton on Monday evening.

In return, the Yankees were forced to give up three prospects, including left-handed pitcher and top minor-league talent Justus Sheffield.

At face value, it's a necessary sacrifice to trade a young talent like Sheffield. Paxton is expected to bring a top-tier southpaw presence toward the top of the Yankees' starting rotation, a significant upgrade from the re-signed veteran CC Sabathia that will also pair well with staff ace and righty Luis Severino.

The 30-year-old Paxton quickly evolved from bottom-two arm to staff ace in Seattle following a 2017 season in which he went 12-5 with a 2.98 ERA. He regressed a bit in 2018 as his ERA ballooned to 3.76, but he led the league with two complete games and one shutout while striking out a career-high 208 batters.

Those numbers do not bring ace-like material, but will only bolster a Yankees starting rotation which was the Achilles heel of a 100-win team last season.

At least, that's what it seems like at face value.

However, there might be some underlying problems with Paxton's game that could leave Yankees fans underwhelmed and disappointed in 2019.

Entering his seventh MLB season, Paxton has never been an innings eater. In fact, he reached a career-high in innings pitched last year with 160.1 in 28 starts. If the Yankees are expecting Paxton to be a top-two starter, he'll be entering uncharted territory in terms of his workload.

There also comes questionable control, though it has slightly improved over the last year. After leading the league with 15 wild pitches in 2017, he had eight in 2018. That could be a recipe for disaster with Gary Sanchez behind the plate.

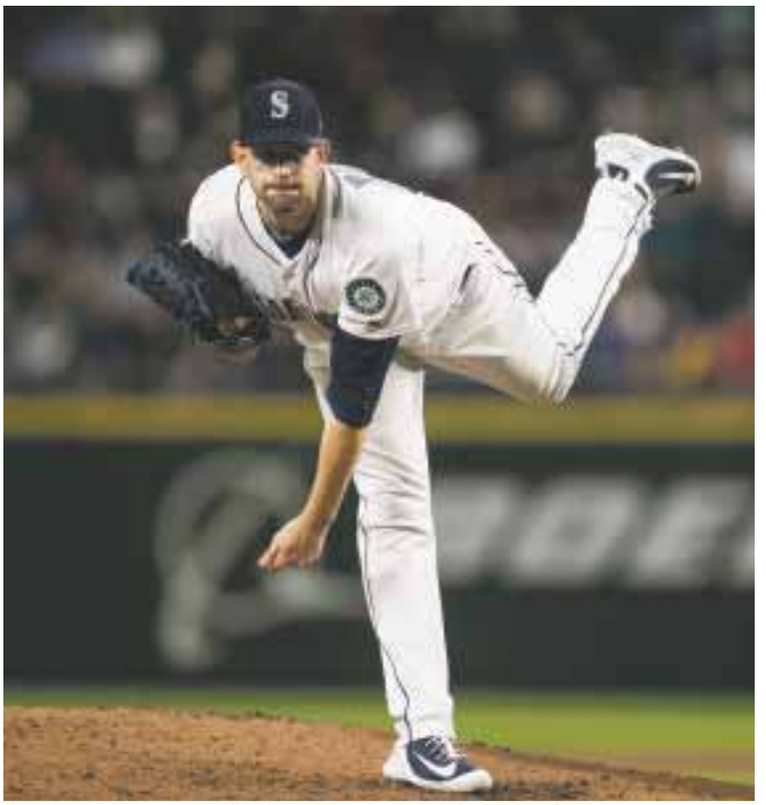
The most concerning thing about Paxton's stat line, though, is the long ball. He gave up a career-high 23 home runs, 12 of them coming at a much more pitcher-friendly park in Safeco Field in Seattle.

He's developed into a flyball pitcher as 41.1 percent of balls put in play against Paxton in 2018 were in the air, his worst mark as a pro. Of that number, over 14 percent of those flyballs resulted in home runs. That number is only going to increase at the hitter-friendly Yankee Stadium.

At the end of the day, the main question for the Yankees will be if it was worth dealing away a promising youngster in Sheffield for Paxton.

The 22-year-old went 7-6 with a 2.48 ERA between double-A and triple-A last season. While he struck out 123 batters in 116.0 innings, his control has proven to be an issue with 50 walks.

It's a strikeout-to-walk ratio that has to go for him to really succeed in the majors, but an opponent's average of .195 and a fastball that can top out at 97 mph can become a force (at least out of the bullpen) if he's able to find his control.



The Yankees acquired James Paxton from the Mariners on Monday night for three minor leaguers. GETTY IMAGES
